Grouped Product Grid

Levementum's Grouped Product Grid extension is a powerful product display grid that helps keep your sites products displayed in an organized and configurable manner. Allows you to display your grouped products the way you want to. Use this grouped product grid Magento extension and sell your product in a manner that makes sense to you and the consumer.

Overview

In today's fiercely competitive E-commerce environment, a caring attitude towards customers can go a long way in creating an enjoyable experience for your customer. The Grouped Product Grid Magento extension is a valuable tool to help you display your grouped products to your customers.

The Magento Enterprise Edition grouped product page is currently lacking any form of customization for the client. The grouped product page has no options for sorting, adding other attributes or any modification beyond adding additional products to it. In addition, the location on the product page allows very little space to add large number of products or additional columns. This extension solves both of those problems.

Just look at these excellent benefits and features of the Levementum Grouped Product Grid extension.
